HERE'S WHAT YOU MISSED IN THIS WEEK'S PULASKI COUNTY JOURNAL

Parks board talks new restrooms

Amber L. Tomlinson

Winamac Parks and Recreation Board members are addressing the wants of the community as they discuss the possibilities of a new restroom.

No formal votes were taken during the special meeting on Nov. 9 but rather a discussion of possibilities in regards to replacing the shelter bathrooms at the Winamac town park.

Board president Courtney Poor said the reason for the meeting was to hear what board and parks manager Dave DeLorenzo would like to see in the new proposed bathrooms.

"We can't really get a quote from our architect until he knows what he is drawing and what we are going to build," Poor said.

Poor made some notes on what could be in the new bathrooms and he wanted DeLorenzo present to make sure nothing was missed.

The board has been discussing new bathrooms for several months as the idea was one of the top items the community would like to see addressed by the parks board, according to a community survey.

As part of the proposed bathrooms project, the bathrooms may be separated at different ends of the shelter to allow for more room for stalls and meeting the requirements of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA).

Several different ideas were voiced including no urinals in the men's bathroom due to vandalism; power washer hookups; a custodial room; all ADA stalls by doubling the size of the bathrooms; ADA sinks; motion-sensor hand dryers, faucets and lighting; a mop sink, separate shutoff water valves for the restrooms; room for changing tables in both bathrooms; electrical outlets that are 5 feet from the ground; and a water bottle filling station with a fountain.

Boardman Brad Zellers questioned if the board would like to see natural lighting in the restrooms, such as glass blocks. His concern is if there is a power outage then it will be hard to see without any natural light. Board members agreed that would be a smart idea depending on the prices.

DeLorenzo said things have been better in regards to the vandalism that was happening at the park. He would also like to see doors that automatically shut on the restrooms to keep the wildlife out.

As the board is discussing the different options for a new bathroom, they also have to keep in mind any ADA regulations and any Department of Natural Resources guidelines because the building is in a floodplain.

Three of the five board members were present at the meeting. Chris Schramm and Pat Bawcum were absent from the meeting.

Classified Ad Network

Reader Advisory: the National Trade Association we belong to has purchased the following classifieds. Determining the value of their service or product is advised by this publication. In order to avoid misunderstandings, some advertisers do not offer "employment" but rather supply the readers with manuals, directories and other materials designed to help their clients establish mail order selling and other businesses at home. Under NO circumstance should you send any money in advance or give the client your checking, license ID, or credit card numbers. Also beware of ads that claim to guarantee loans regardless of credit and note that if a credit repair company does business only over the phone it's illegal to request any money before delivering its service.
