Library chosen as absentee voting location

Amber L. Tomlinson

Pulaski County Election Board members made a final decision as to where the absentee or early voting will occur this election year.

On Friday, board members met to decide as to whether the Pulaski County Public Library would be an ideal place to hold the absentee voting. The group toured the library on Jan. 19 to ensure there would be a secure place for voters and that the voting would not impede on library patrons.

Because the county adopted voting centers this past year, the absentee voting can be held at a different location instead of next to the county clerk's office. Due to the change, the board wanted to move the absentee voting out of the courthouse where many of the candidates work or visit. The courthouse is also not handicapped user friendly.

The board toured the library with library executive director MacKenzie Ledley. According to election board president Jon Frain, Ledley made recommendations as to where the voting could occur, but in the end the board members agreed that tutor room A was the best location in the facility for the voting.

"I like the location because it is closest to the hallway for accessibility but yet it is private and large enough to fit the machines without being crowded," said election board vice president Laura Bailey.

The board also approved of the tutor room because it has windows, several electric outlets and according to Bailey, the library agreed to have a lock installed on the door so the machines would not have to be moved every night.

"That way if we choose to use that location again then we know it will be secure," Bailey said.

Another reason for wanting to use the library as the location of the absentee voting is the board liked the hours of the library versus the courthouse hours that are limited to regular business hours. Board members were looking to change the absentee hours to offer more time for voters.

It was approved that the absentee voting would occur Monday through Friday with later hours on Thursdays. Absentee voters would also be able to cast a vote the two Saturdays before the election on April 23 and April 30, 9:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m., with a lunch break from 1-1:30 p.m. Voting on Monday-Wednesday and Friday will be 9:30 a.m.-5 p.m. with a break from 1-1:30 p.m., and voting on Thursday will be from 11 a.m.-7 p.m. with a break from 1-1:30 p.m. Absentee voting begins on April 5.

In other business:

- Minutes from the Jan. 19 meeting were approved.
- During the last meeting, the board had decided that a postcard would be sent to each household of a registered voter. County clerk Christi Hoffa said a report cannot be created in the state system that recognizes household but every registered voter. She said a report can be created with the registered voters and imported into an Excel spreadsheet but there is room for error. Hoffa has talked with other county clerks and it appears the best way will be to talk with the local post office and use those addresses.

- There was also a discussion of how the poll workers and absentee voting workers are supposed to be paid. It was decided that they would continue to research the issue to ensure it is done properly and acceptable by the state board of accounts.
- Frain said that Hoffa has been doing a great job in her new role as clerk and tackling some unexpected issues that the election board is facing this year such as a cost increase in the maintenance service agreement with MicroVote.
- Hoffa said the county was recently contacted by the state because the scanned election numbers didn't match what was reported. She was advised by the state that some poll books and absentee voting records did not get scanned by the previous clerk. The information was located and "we were able to get that information scanned in," Hoffa said. As of the meeting on Friday, Hoffa said she has not heard back from the state that there were any further problems. Bailey said when those numbers don't match then the state cannot close out those numbers and certify the election. "It's bad if it doesn't match and it's our problem," she said.
- The board will meet on Jan. 29 to review campaign finances.
