Thank You

A big thank you to all my family, friends, coworkers and customers who emailed, called or came to my retirement open house. You all made my day so special. Thank you all again for sending me off to my next adventure so royally.

Joyce Girtton

The family of Cletha Scott wishes to thank all the family and friends that attended Mother's viewing and funeral. It was heartwarming to see those that her life had touched.

Special thanks to everyone at the Pulaski Health Care Center who did such an exceptional job of tending to Mother's needs during her stay there. Your compassion and caring will long be remembered. To those that brought in food, sent cards of condolence and donated to the Pulaski Health Care Center Resident Fund, your contributions will continue Mother's legacy of caring and sharing.

Thank you to Mother's church family for the excellent meal and to Reverend Seger for the chapel and graveside service.

Last but not least, thank you to Frain Mortuary for your professionalism and support through Mother's viewing and funeral.

Sons and family of Cletha Scott,
Jerry, Dave, Bill & Carol

Peak Community Services remains dedicated to individuals with disabilities living in the Winamac community

Harrison Smith, Peak Community Services Director of Marketing and Day Services

State Senator Ed Charbonneau also congratulated Peak Community Services CEO Chris Nabors and director of marketing and day services Harrison Smith at the ribbon-cutting.

Peak Community Services cut the ribbon to its newest supported group home this Aug. 8. This new home, named Galbreath following Peak’s tradition of naming homes after the road they’re built on, provides Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) accessible housing to eight members of the Pulaski County community, each with their own bedrooms and their unique accessibility needs being met.

Christopher Nabors, CEO of Peak Community Services, said in his speech at last week’s ribbon-cutting ceremony, “We emphasize the importance of building our homes in the community, providing the individuals served the opportunity to be a part of the community. The Galbreath location was strategically selected to be part of a developing subdivision community, as one of the first homes built, so as new houses are built around our Galbreath home, the individuals we serve will be standing long-term members of this inclusive community.”

During the ribbon-cutting, members of Peak Community Services Leadership Team including CEO Chris Nabors celebrated a new home. The team was congratulated by Chris Lee, district director for Congresswoman Jackie Walorski, and Katie Dermody, field representative for Senator Mike Braun.

Peak Community Services is dedicated to providing services to individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities. Peak’s Supported Group Living program is accompanied by community living, family support services, habilitation services (life skills training), work services, employment serves, wellness program and pre-employment transition services (Pre-ETS) program as opportunities provided, through Peak, to help individuals reach life goals specific to them.
