Woman leaves legacy of kindness, caring

Amber L. Tomlinson

Four nonprofit organizations recently benefited from the legacy of a woman who was known for her kindness and caring nature.

The woman, Frieda Houghton, was not only known for leaving a monetary legacy but she and her husband Everett also left a lasting one.

Houghton was 100 years old when she passed on Nov. 21 of last year. She spent most of her life living in Pulaski County as she was born in Francesville, graduated from Winamac High School and lived in the Winamac area. She was an active member of the First Presbyterian Church and enjoyed playing in the bell choir. Houghton was a bookkeeper and retired from First Union Bank and Trust where she worked for 51 years.

Everett, who died in May of 1981, was a retired farmer who served in the Air Force during World War II. He was also a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

The two lived in a small house and within their means. Most who knew them knew they had giving hearts but not that they had saved a large sum of money to give back to the community and family.

The Houghtons didn't have children but they were close to their nieces and nephews. Her niece Carol Willis and her husband Tom watched over Houghton because they lived the closest to her.

Willis described her aunt as being "very giving and she was very appreciative of everything she had. She never had a bad word to say about anybody."

For more than 20 years, Houghton and Carol and Tom have wintered in Texas. For the last seven years, Houghton traveled with them. The two camped across the street from each other in the same park.

"We had a ball," Carol said. "She was very kind."

Not only did the Houghtons plan to share their estate but while they lived they gave to many causes.

The two wanted to give back to the community and started a scholarship for students in Culver and Eastern Pulaski school corporations. Each year a boy and a girl from each corporation are awarded the Everett R. and Frieda G. Houghton High School Scholarship.

Kelly Field, who is a trust officer at First National Bank of Monterey, worked with Houghton from 1976 to 1980. Houghton taught Field how to do general ledger because Houghton would winter in Texas and needed someone to complete that job while she was away.

Field described Houghton as "giving. She was thoughtful and she was quiet. She stayed very aware and involved in everything about her personal finances almost all the way up until the time she passed."

Houghton and Field were able to visit with each other throughout the years and the two would talk when Houghton would make a deposit to the memorial scholarship.

"She just continued to add to that over the years. She would accumulate funds and come in and hand us a check," Field said. "They were very giving people and she was a wonderful mentor to me."

As part of Houghton's trust she gave to four nonprofit organizations that were dear to her heart. Those organizations included Riley Hospital for Children, St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, the First Presbyterian Church and the Culver Lions Club. About 34 percent of her holdings went to the nonprofits. The assets of the trust were saved by Frieda and Everett.

"There was never a question that she was going to be giving a large portion of her estate to charity," said attorney Justin Schramm. "That was big to her."

Schramm worked with Houghton as he oversaw her trust. He described her as being "sharp until the end. She was a neat woman. All the investment people that I have talked to that when we were liquidating the trust, had the same thing to say about her. They couldn't believe that a woman, 90-some years of age, was so meticulous and knew every investment that she had everywhere, what kind of interest it was gaining, and she wanted to make sure that it was still earning a good return."

Schramm said he was a recipient of the scholarship his senior year of high school. Schramm represented her during the last few years of her life.

Thank You

The family of Barry Trueblood would like to thank everyone for their expressions of care and sympathy at this time. The generous donations to the Disabled American Vets and other charities in Barry's memory were very much appreciated.

A special thanks to Dan, Jon, Mike, Gene and everyone affiliated with Frain's, who do so much to make this time less difficult. To Barry's employer, Ryan Central, and their employees for their kindness, support and assistance.

We couldn't have made it without Jim Ketchen and the family of the Francesville First Christian Church. Jim always helps us say goodbye with his caring, personal message. To the kitchen crew and everyone who donated food, you were a special blessing to us.

Finally, a special thanks to West Central's great class of 1983 with their many tributes to Barry. Thank you. The memories will go on.

Local youth learn CPR and first aid

Much of the Scouting program involves the training of the youth to be prepared for the large variety of situations that life places before them. First aid is one component of that training. The Boy Scouts of America program teaches that a part of first aid includes being prepared to give the first help to a victim of an emergency until trained medical personnel arrives. This includes the instruction on both first aid and how to properly perform CPR.

Warren and Barb Penrod organized a CPR/first aid course through Goshen's IU Health Center for Winamac's Venture Crew 2229 and Boy Scout Troop 229. The course was held at First United Methodist Church a few weeks ago. It included giving CPR, how to help a person who is choking, and included instructions on the proper use of an Automated External Defibrillator (AED) which can recognize the heart problem and give a shock if needed. During the course, the Scouts' main concern seemed to be that if they did not administer the CPR perfectly, would they harm the victim. Penrod assured course participants that an attempt to perform CPR that was not done perfectly was much better than doing nothing at all. As the program ended, everyone agreed that being trained in first aid and CPR was time well spent. Scouts of Troop 229 then put some of their first aid training to work as they partnered with Pulaski Memorial Hospital at the Monterey Days Festival during the Labor Day weekend. The Scouts checked the blood pressure of people attending the festival while hospital staff checked the blood pressure of people at the Monterey Days Festival and if the numbers were out of a certain range, directed them to hospital staff for additional advice. the blood sugar levels. The day ended with the troop acting as a part of the honor guard by carrying the flags in the festival parade. Upcoming activities for the troop include attending a Fall Camporee at France Park with the theme of survival training and conducting a flag retirement ceremony at the Church of the Heartland.
