HERE'S WHAT YOU MISSED IN THIS WEEK'S PULASKI COUNTY JOURNAL

Francesville to continue road repair with grant funding

Amber L. Tomlinson

Road repair will continue for the Town of Francesville, as it will be receiving additional grant funding.

At a regular meeting on Oct. 2, town council members were advised that the town will be receiving $101,000 in funding from the Community Crossing grant.

"It's almost like you are a year behind now on your paving but you are getting more money so you can do things in a larger swath when you do it," said town employee Walter Craig.

Sections of streets that will be repaired with the funding are Salem, Brooks and Market but the work won't begin until next year.

"It's a pretty good deal as long as the state can keep financing it," Craig said.

He commended street superintendent Brad Stevens on finishing the applications that are required for the grant process. There were 2,800 applications submitted this last round.

Craig also said a large majority of the streets have been swept and about five truckloads of dirt were removed.

In other business:

- Minutes from the Sept. 18 meeting were approved.
- Francesville Volunteer Fire Department Treasurer Ray Cooley presented two quotes, between $1,019 and $891, to the council regarding pump repair. He said the department is not quite ready for the parts because other work is being done on the fire trucks.
- Police marshal Doug Lee said radar and vehicle checks were conducted for four hours in the 400 block of Gordon Street where there was a previous complaint about reckless driving. Lee said 118 vehicles passed through the area with the top speed being 39 mph. The average speed of the vehicles was between 25-30 mph. Three vehicles were stopped — two for speeding and one for a child seat check. Lee said he is hoping to have a traffic study done in that area. He also said the council needs to think about budgeting funds to purchase new radios and equipment. Town council president Andy Durham asked if the department could monitor the highway a little more for vehicles speeding through town. Lee said he has contacted the state highway department in regards to speed limit signs.

- Water superintendent Greg Stone said all three of the town wells have been tested. The results have not been determined but the initial report is that everything is fine. He said one of the high service pumps will need to be repaired or replaced. The pump is about 20 years old. It will cost about $3,000 to replace. Stone said he is looking to purchase new water meters. The town has had several meters that are new and the battery is dead. Those batteries should last 25 years, according to Stone. Stone gave an update on the sewer upgrade project and said they should be hanging pipe soon.
- John Borgers, who is representing the company that engineered the project, gave an update of the spending of the sewer upgrade project. The project is moving much faster than expected and the substantial completion could be done by Oct. 14. The council approved a payment of $163,665.43 contingent on receiving some signed paperwork.
- Craig presented some information regarding the conditions of the town sidewalks to the council. He took information from different sources online that would help categorize the condition of the sidewalks. He established five different condition categories. There are sections of sidewalk that are in the worst category and need substantial work. Later in the meeting, Durham said at the next meeting the council will review the availability of funds for the sidewalks. They will also discuss if the expenses would be shared with property owners.
- A motion was approved to accept Ordinance W-1 2017 regarding guidelines for businesses to be equipped with water backflow prevention. As per the amendment, the business must purchase the equipment at its own expense and that equipment must be tested annually. The test results would then be given to the town for their official record.
- The council approved for the town Halloween hours to be Oct. 31, 5-7 p.m.
- Resolution 2-2017 regarding the 2018 budget was approved.
- Claims were approved.
